

Charles Tyrrell

Born in Trim, Co. Meath in 1950, Charles Tyrrell studied at the National College of Art & Design in Dublin. In 1982 he was elected a member of Aosdána and that same year he represented Ireland at the Paris Biennale. His work has featured in many major exhibitions in Ireland and abroad, solo exhibitions include Project Arts Centre (1974, 1975); West Cork Arts Centre (1990); Triskel Arts Centre, Cork (1992); Austin/Desmond Fine Art, London (1994, 1998); RHA Gallagher Gallery, Dublin (2000); Butler Gallery, Kilkenny Castle (2002); Fenton Gallery, Cork (2005) and has had numerous exhibitions at the Taylor Galleries, Dublin from the 1980s.

His work is represented in all major Irish collections. Charles Tyrrell now lives and works on the Beara Peninsula, Co Cork.

Charles Tyrrell

Untitled, 2005
Woodblock, 103 x 102cm
Edition of 75

Untitled, 2005
Woodblock, 103 x 102cm
Edition of 75

Untitled, 2005
Woodblock, 103 x 102cm
Edition of 75

Untitled, 2005
Woodblock, 103 x 102cm
Edition of 75

...

Each of these four woodblock prints has been cut by the artist from sheets of birch plywood and then marked with a variety of hand and power tools before being inked with rollers and assembled on the press bed for printing.

STONE ROAD PRESS

Charles Tyrrell

Untitled, 2005

Woodblock, 103 x 102cm

Edition of 75

STONEY ROAD PRESS

Charles Tyrrell

Untitled, 2005

Woodblock, 103 x 102cm

Edition of 75

STONEY ROAD PRESS

Charles Tyrrell

Untitled, 2005

Woodblock, 103 x 102cm

Edition of 75

STONEY ROAD PRESS

Charles Tyrrell

Untitled, 2005

Woodblock, 103 x 102cm

Edition of 75

